HAVE YOU MADE YOUR NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTION

We wish you an abundance of joy, love and prosperity. After the topsy-turvy year that was 2020, it's probably safe to say that most of us are looking forward to a better year ahead.

However, let's not simply hope - let's do what WE can to make our lives, health and relationships so much better.

While it seems cliché to make resolutions, it is a time-honoured tradition for the new year. And it does make sense - making resolutions helps give people something to look forward to and keep working towards.

IT KEEPS THAT FORWARD MOMENTUM GOING.

Even if they aren't followed through completely, making a resolution shows that you have the belief and hope in your ability to change habits and become a better you.

With the motivation of a new year driving you to succeed, now's the time to set some goals and stick to them. Instead of thinking about things you need or think you need to change in an effort to make yourself "better," focus on resolving to do more of the things that make you feel good.

WHY NOT FILL YOUR RESOLUTION LIST WITH EASY, GOOD-FOR-YOU GOALS?

Try one of these simple lifestyle tweaks each day, and you'll not only jumpstart a healthier body and mind — you will feel fantastic and so excited to make 2021 the year you shine!

WHAT'S THE BIG DEAL ABOUT NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTIONS THOUGH?

A New Year's resolution is a tradition, most common in the Western Hemisphere but also found in the Eastern Hemisphere, in which a person resolves to continue good practices, change an undesired trait or behavior, to accomplish a personal goal, or otherwise improve their life.

According to the American Medical Association, 46% of participants who made common New Year's resolutions (e.g. weight loss, exercise programs, quitting smoking) were likely to succeed, over ten times as among those deciding to make life changes at other times of the year.

'HIS YEAR

MAKE SOME RESOLUTIONS FOR GOOD HEALTH =

MAKE YOUR HEALTH A PRIORITY.

This is a mindset change more than anything else. Oftentimes we are so caught up with everything going on in our lives that we neglect our health. This year, resolve to make decisions that are good for your body. Take care of your body and invest more because you still have a long way to go ahead and the journey will require you to have a healthy body as you age. Consider taking classes such as yoga, gym, swimming, whatever is most interesting to you.

CUT BACK ON YOUR COFFEE INTAKE.

Coffee is like a magic beverage that keeps you going even when you feel like you can't go on anymore. However, there are more disadvantages if you fail to control your coffee intake as it can increase your risk of cardiovascular disease. Try to limit yourself to 400 milligrams of caffeine a day, which should still be plenty of coffee to get you up and motivated in the morning.

START A NEW WORKOUT.

If you're getting bored, why not switch up your exercise routine by incorporating something new and exciting? Try a new workout at the gym, a new online tutorial, or just something completely unexpected. Switching things up keeps things interesting and challenging.

AND HERE ARE SOME FOR OVERALL LIFE-IMPROVEMENT =

TAKE UP A NEW HOBBY

Start a new hobby or learn a new skill on your own. There's so much information out there online and all for free - make use of it! Hobbies can lower your stress levels, boost your brain power and improve your ability to focus. Who knows, you might even be able to turn it into a side hustle!

WRITE A BUSINESS PLAN

If you're entrepreneur-minded, make 2021 the year to start your new business! The first step? Writing a business plan. Once you get your ideas down on paper, you'll be that much more motivated to turn those ideas into reality

SAVE MONEY

2020 definitely taught us the value of being prepared. So carry this mindset through with you. Be sure to set a budget and track exactly where you spend your money to stay on top of things. Then, transfer money each week or fortnight into your savings and watch it grow. You can drastically improve your life in the long run by saving money

SPEND MORE TIME WITH FAMILY AND FRIENDS

At the end of the day, as social creatures, human beings are at their best when they maintain healthy connections with each other. So this year, pledge to spend a certain amount of time with your loved ones. Career goals are great to achieve; money is nice to have; but our family, friends and community are priceless.

WRITE THINGS DOWN

Take time once a month to write down everything you've accomplished- it feels good to have a record to look back on and see how far you've come. You'll feel like you're growing and feel more motivated to continue.

DON'T BEAT YOURSELF UP THOUGH IF YOU FAIL

Instead, why not simply make a different resolution and take tiny steps to making it happen? We forget that resolutions aren't just a thing to do for the new year's, it's actually something you can do at any time of the year! Good luck, we wish you all the best.

As the Covid-19 pandemic continues to ravage the world, the wearing of masks has become mandatory almost everywhere. However, mandatory mask-wearing brings about an unforeseen side-effect - face mask acne, colloquially known as "maskne".

The price we pay for following the SOPs! But never fear, there are ways to combat this dreaded phenomenon while also being a responsible mask-wearing member of society.

FIRST, WHAT IS MASKNE, REALLY?

The proper name for maskne is acne mechanica. It is a form of acne caused by friction against the skin. Since a mask will rub against the skin of the face, this increases the likelihood of acne mechanica developing.

Face masks also cause irritation because it covers the skin, sometimes quite tightly, for long hours. They trap dirt, sweat, make-up, and humidity, thus resulting in clogged pores. Certain fabrics may also cause sensitivity. Of course, if you're not cleaning your mask properly or reusing disposable masks, this increases the chances of maskne as well.

TRAP DIRT

SWEAT

MAKE-UP

HUMIDITY

The reasons vary from person to person, but maskne is typically caused by a combination of the above factors.

Since wearing a mask is unavoidable, here are some things you can do to prevent or minimise the formation of maskne:

Wash your face twice a day. This is important whether or not you're dealing with breakouts caused by a face mask or otherwise. All of us should diligently cleanse our faces twice a day to get rid of dirt, oil and other impurities which may cause acne or other inflammation. It should be considered the foundation of any skincare routine. Choose a cleanser that is suitable for your skin type.

Choose your face masks wisely. While the N95 and respirator-style masks are touted to be the most effective, they also fully envelop the nose and mouth. The material is also very thick. Because they are worn tight against the face, they are more protective. They are also more irritating to the skin and locks in more moisture. If you're not in high-risk situations, you may want to consider using a lighter, softer and more breathable face mask. There are many reusable options out there made of soft, smooth materials like neoprene, lyocell and even silk. These materials are gentler on the skin. Of course, no matter what fabric you choose, wash regularly to get rid of the dirt and bacteria!

Use a barrier lotion. There are creams and lotions on the market that can be helpful because they create a barrier between the mask and your skin. You can try this method as part of a skincare routine that includes thorough cleansing.

Try not to wear makeup under your face mask. It might seem strange to wear makeup under your face mask as no one can see it! However, many of us wear makeup because it's part of our routine, and makes us feel good. Unfortunately, makeup when mixed with trapped bacteria and dirt and friction is a recipe for clogged pores breakouts. If you're wearing a mask for long periods of time and are suffering from breakouts, consider taking a break from makeup for the time being. Or try just making up your eyes!

For the time being, we all have to play our parts in preventing the spread of Covid-19. Part of that is wearing a mask every time we go out. Since for now this is unavoidable, try the above tips to combat maskne if you're suffering from irritated skin and breakout. It takes some trial and error to see what works, but we're sure there's something out there that will work for you.

#RETURNLEGACY

Acne is the most common skin problem faced by the population. Although acne doesn't harm the health, it can take a toll on the emotional health. People with acne may suffer low self-esteem, and in severe cases, develop depression.

Acne is formed mainly due to the clogging of hair follicles and sebaceous glands, which causes the accumulation of sebum in the pores that resulted in blockage and inflammation. Acne usually occur during adolescence, because this is when the sebaceous glands are most active, and they gradually decrease entering the adulthood. But, do you notice, many adults are still suffering from acne, especially since the beginning of the era of face mask!

During this pandemic, everyone wears a mask at all times. Prolong mask wearing causes the skin to secrete more sebum, result in sebum accumulation, pores clogging and acne formation. When acne touched the mask, it will worsen, inflammation spread to other areas, and acne breakout becomes out of control!

There are 5 locations in the world renowned for the longevity of its residents. They are Hotan, a major oasis town in southwestern Xinjiang, Bama Yao Autonomous County in Guangxi - both in China; Vilcabamba village in Loja Province located at the southern region of Ecuador; Transcaucasia, or South Caucasus, a geographical region on the border of Eastern Europe and Western Asia; and lastly Hunza, a mountainous valley in the autonomous Gilgit-Baltistan region of Pakistan. What these places share in common is that the life expectancy of their local residents far exceeds the world average.

Among them, Hunza in Pakistan is the most peculiar. According to local residents, the population in Hunza is less likely to fall sick. There, people in their sixties and seventies are not considered elderly, in fact they remain actively and physically cultivating their land at the age of eighty or ninety, and it is common sight for them to live over a hundred years old in good health. This fascinating phenomenon have attracted scientists from all over the world to develop a keen interest and unearth its mysteries.

After carrying out extensive research and studies, scientists identified the key behind Hunza residents' longevity - their source of water. There are numerous glaciers and rivers within Hunza's geographical vicinity and all the water are rich in minerals and an element not easily stabilized in water known as negative hydrogen ions.

Negative hydrogen ion is recognized as the strongest antioxidant element in existence. Local residents benefit from its anti-aging properties and prolonging their longevity by their daily water consumption from sources rich in negative hydrogen ion, which help improve cellular hydration and enhance nutrient absorption. The same source of water is also used for irrigation hence no chemical substances are required, ensuring the fruits and vegetables grow healthily. These are just some examples of how water sources rich in negative hydrogen ions benefit human lives.

To make this wonderful discovery of longevity available and accessible to all walks of life, Return Legacy has meticulously developed a cutting-edge technology – Micro-Mineralized Nutrient Technology (MMNT). This highly advanced technology stabilizes and locks in negative hydrogen ions, enabling you to benefit from it no matter where you are.

Micro-Mineralized Nutrient Technology is widely used in a range of Return Legacy products, including 2° series of skin care products and REOXLIFE series of nutritional healthcare products.

With just 3 simple steps; Reset, Reform, and Regain, helping you reverse the effects of aging and achieve longevity both internally and externally.

The lifestyles of modern living and bad habits have made detoxification efforts increasingly difficult. To ensure everyone can detox easily and happily, we crafted the 3R concept -RESET, REFORM and REGAIN.

RESET

In the RESET concept, there is body cleansing. DETOX 215 is a 15-day detox program carried out once every 2 months to help the body detoxify thoroughly.

The lifespan of red blood cells in the body is 4-months, hence, undergoing detoxification every 2 months is equivalent to a detox every mid-cycle of red blood cells. This helps improve the health of red blood cells, allowing them to carry more oxygen into vital organs. It also effectively improves metabolism, energy levels, weight management, and boosts absorption abilities as well.

DETEX215 contains a series of NUREOX products, including: _

NUREOX DECLEANSE

NUREOX Decleanse uses all-natural plant ingredients as its formula that is rich in dietary fiber, capturing harmful substances in the intestines and preventing them from being absorbed by the body. It cleanses and detoxifies the intestines, enhancing subsequent nutrient absorption. When the body's toxins are discharged, you will notice that your skin will begin to glow.

NUREOX ENZYME

NUREOX Enzyme is a fusion of various digestive enzymes. The function of enzymes is for food digestion. Food that cannot be digested properly causes indigestion and encourages bacteria in the intestine to produce toxins. NUREOX Enzyme helps supplement the body's enzymes and greatly reduces the effects caused by toxins from indigestion. In addition,

NUREOX Enzyme strengthens the digestive system, while detoxifying it also ensures that your body gets enough nutrients to maintain a healthy body.

NUREOX GRAIN

NUREOX Grain is a uniquely formulated nutritious drink mixing a variety of ancient grains which cleanses the body. An excellent first meal for a high-quality breakfast to start your day in the detox programme. NUREOX Grain combines ancient grains and modern grains making it rich in dietary fiber, vitamins, and protein while also providing high iron content. Most importantly, it does not contain trans fats. It nourishes the body while creating a solid nutritional foundation. This nutritious drink can be a replacement for your daily needs.

NUREOX PROTEIN PROMIX

NUREOX Protein Promix is rich in pea protein, soybean powder, isolated soy protein, and other high-nutrient ingredients, an excellent choice to increase your daily protein intake. Protein is an indispensable nutrient as the body needs the amino acids to synthesize enzymes and other elements that help detoxification. To ensure the body maintains its optimum health and energy while undergoing the detoxification process, we need to consume the right amount of protein. NUREOX

Protein Promix makes an excellent choice for a healthy meal replacement.

REFORM

After going through detoxification in RESET, the body is now given an opportunity to reboot. When toxins in the body are purged, the digestive system's burden also eases up, thus increasing the body's absorption capabilities. This is when we move into the second R - REFORM.

So why do cells in the human body get damaged for no apparent reason? The key perpetrators causing cell damage are actually free radicals. These free radicals are unfortunately the cause of many illnesses and diseases and are all around us. In fact, during metabolism processes, our body produces free radicals all the time. Bad dietary habits such as oily, salty, sugary foods, environmental pollution, smoking, drinking, staying up late, and even UV exposure produces large amounts of free radicals. When these free radicals begin to attack our cells, it causes cell damage and inflammation of the body which leads to various diseases. We must protect healthy cells in the body but also remember to repair damaged ones.

IMMUNE 30

Finding inspiration in this, Return Legacy designed the Immune 30 containing Reoxlife Mediterranean Gold Plus and REOXlife Potent which are rich in antioxidants. Inspired by the concept of Mediterranean diets and designed to protect healthy cells, Reoxlife Mediterranean Gold Plus contains 22 types fruits and vegetables and it is a unique formula born from Legacy Science team's cross-border cooperation and exhaustive research - LePheno®, which promotes the human body to produce antioxidant enzyme known as Superoxide Dismutase (SOD). SOD is a super antioxidant found in cells and the body's first line of defence against free radicals. It helps protect healthy cells from free radical damage, delays the aging process, and creates an invisible shield for healthy cells.

For damaged cells, REOXlife Potent contains a variety of active ingredients such as melon and negative hydrogen ions stabilized in the product through Micro-Mineralised Nutrient Technology, making it extremely rich in antioxidants. It helps counteract free radicals, reduces body Inflammation, and repairs damaged cells.

REFORM's Immune 30 greatly improves our immunity, protect us against bacterial infection, maintaining balanced inflammatory levels, and ensuring we don't fall ill easily. After completing Immune 30, our immune system will have strengthened significantly. Now we can move on to the third and final $\bf R$ – REGAIN, to specifically regulate the body's needs and regain a healthy and confident self!

REGAIN

After going through RESET and REFORM, the body is in a very good state, but we're not going to rest on our laurels here are we? Having a body that is in tip-top condition allows us to further fine-tune our body's physical needs comfortably, improve our overall health, and regain a healthy and confident you. REGAIN is a perfect fit for you!

ONE COMPLETE PACKAGE

— TO KICKSTART YOUR DETOX

Do you feel constant fatigue? Got unpleasant body odor and constipation? What about muscle aches and headaches?

These are all actually signs that your body is in need of a detox. Detoxification is a popular way to keep your body healthy.

Detoxification can be defined as the removal of harmful substances from the human body through the liver. Detoxification can be done in medicine to rid your body from toxins. Dialysis and chelation therapy are some examples of detox techniques.

BELOW ARE SOME SIGNS YOU NEED DETOXING:

SIGN 1: WEIGHT GAIN SIGN 6: MOOD SWINGS

SIGN 2 : CONSTANT FATIGUE SIGN 7 : UNPLEASANT BODY ODOR

SIGN 3 : INSOMNIA SIGN 8 : CONSTIPATION
SIGN 4 : FORGETFUL SIGN 9 : MUSCLE ACHES

SIGN 5 : HEADACHES SIGN 10 : SKIN REACTIONS

HOW TO DETOX YOUR BODY

LIMIT ALCOHOL INTAKE

According to National Institutes of Health, 90% of the alcohol in the liver is metabolized. Liver enzymes metabolize alcohol into a recognized cancer-causing compound, acetaldehyde. While low to moderate consumption of alcohol is good for our heart health, excessive drinking is problematic.

Excessive drinking can cause fat build-up, inflammation, and scarring, eventually causing serious damage to your liver. Your liver will not function properly and perform the necessary tasks when this occurs, including removing waste and toxins from your body. This is why the health authorities recommend that alcohol consumption be limited to one drink a day for women and two for men.

FOCUS ON SLEEP

To help the natural detoxification mechanism of your body, it is important to ensure sufficient and good quality sleep every night. Sleeping helps the brain to reorganize and recharge itself and to eliminate harmful by-products of waste that have accumulated during the day.

Poor quality sleep has been related to short and long term health such as stress, anxiety, high blood pressure, heart disease, type 2 diabetes and obesity. For optimum good health, you should sleep seven to nine hours per day.

DRINK MORE WATER

Water helps to control the temperature of your body, lubricates joints, facilitates digestion and absorption of nutrients and detoxifies your body by eliminating waste products. To function optimally and break down nutrients for your body to use as energy, your body's cells must be constantly repaired.

Water transports waste materials out of the body through urination, respiration, and perspiration, essentially eliminating them. The required daily water consumption is 125 ounces (3.7 liters) for males and 91 ounces (2.7 liters) for females. Depending on your diet, where you live, and your activity level, you may need more or less.

REDUCE YOUR INTAKE OF SUGAR

Sugar is one of the reasons for today's public health crisis. Obesity and other chronic illnesses, such as heart disease, cancer and diabetes, have all been associated with high intake of sugar. These diseases can harm the organs, such as liver and kidneys, that play an important role in natural detoxification.

For example, high sugar drink intake may cause fatty liver, a disorder that has a negative effect on liver function. You can keep the body's detoxification system safe by eating less junk food. If you can, opt to eat more vegetables and fruits instead of junk food.

CONSUME ANTIOXIDANT- RICH FOODS

Antioxidants protect the cells from harm caused by free radicals. A disorder caused by excessive development of free radicals is oxidative stress. Excessive free radicals can be created by alcohol, cigarette smoke, a poor diet, and exposure to pollutants.

These free radicals then cause health problems such as dementia, heart disease, liver disease, asthma, and some forms of cancer. A diet rich in antioxidants will help your body combat oxidative stress induced by excess free radicals and other toxins that raise your risk of illness. You can try to consume foods that include vitamin A, vitamin C, vitamin E, selenium, lycopene, lutein, and zeaxanthin. Below are the foods that rich in antioxidants: Berries, fruits, nuts, cocoa, vegetables, spices, and beverages like coffee and green tea.

EXERCISE

Regular exercise may be the magic bullet that helps you maintain a longer, healthier life. The benefits cannot be overstated. It helps you decrease the risk of multiple disorders and illnesses, including type 2 diabetes, heart disease, high blood pressure, and cancer.

While there are many reasons behind the health benefits of exercise, a main point is decreased inflammation. Inflammation may weaken the organs and body system, and also cause disease. Exercise will enable the detoxification system of your body to function correctly and protect against disease by reducing inflammation. It is recommended to exercise for at least 75-150 minutes a week.

In shorts, detoxification helps you to rid your body of harmful substances. Aid this process with our DETOX 215 Package 1, containing all-star products from Return Legacy:

RECOMMENDED FOR 15 DAYS EVERY 2 MONTHS

We recommend a 15 days cleanse to gain the optimum effects and give our bodies a break from processing high-fat and high sugar foods, many of which feature in our daily diets. It's also good to use your detox period as a time to kickstart and get used to a clean diet.

The reason why we recommend a cleanse every two months is because our red blood cells have a lifespan of 4 months before they are replaced. Therefore, a cleanse every half cycle helps improve the health of our blood cells, helping them carry more oxygen to our vital organs. This in turn leads to an increase in energy levels, more effective weight management, improved metabolism and enhance nutrient absorption.

EXPIRED MAKEUP

Can Spoil Your Skin

Whether you're someone who loves makeup or a dabbler with just a few products in your arsenal, one thing is for sure - expired make up is pretty gross!

No matter if we use a little or a lot, we all use make-up to look better and feel better about ourselves. However, expired beauty products can produce the opposite effect. In fact, expired make up can have sinister effects ranging from allergic reactions (most common) to bacterial infections.

Skin care and beauty products are made up of various substances (organic or synthetic), preservatives, and chemicals. After the use by date, the efficacy of these substances become questionable. At best, they simply don't work well anymore. At worst, they seriously harm you.

Perhaps you weren't even aware that makeup products actually have expiry dates. We all know to check the expiration dates on food and medication. But makeup and skincare products in general, also have expiration dates that are actually marked on the packaging already. Do take heed of the following lifespans of various makeup products:

Mascara 3months

(some have claimed six months; however, most experts insist that three months is more suitable)

- Liquid foundation & concealer 6–12 months
- Cream blush & eyeshadow 6–12months
- Powder blush & eyeshadow 1 year
- Eyeliner & lipliner pencils 2 year
- Liquid eyeliner 6months
- Moisturizers & skincare products
 - Lipstick Tyear

It is especially important to throw out expired mascara and eye products in a timely manner. This is because such products are particularly susceptible to contamination. If you experience symptoms such as redness, swelling, pink eye, pain, acne, or pus after applying mascara, it is likely that the mascara has been contaminated. Similarly, using expired eye products can cause eye infections which will cost time, effort, and money to treat.

Perhaps you' ve thrown the packaging away and have no idea what the expiration date might be. These are some practical things you can do to check and see if a product can still be used or not:

- The smell has changed.
- The product has been exposed to prolonged heat.
- The product's colour and texture has changed.
- Mold has grown on the product.

Try and get the best quality makeup and skincare products that your budget allows. Authentic makeup and skincare brands will indicate the expiration date clearly. As an example, European products will have a Period After Opening symbol on them that tells you how long the product is good for. And unlike makeup products manufactured in other parts of the world, those manufactured in Europe are legally required to state an expiry date.

Although there might not necessarily be an expiry date printed on some of your favourite makeup products, they should generally be discarded within 12 months.

How you handle your makeup in general will also determine how long each product can be used. Bacteria-free cosmetics will last longer than those which have been contaminated.

Consider doing the following:

- Wash your hands before applying any makeup.
- Do not share any of your makeup.
- Keep your cosmetics in a dry area which is not exposed to either sunlight or dry heat.

If you're guilty of having a drawerful of makeup items that you have not touched in years, consider this your wakeup call!

It may seem wasteful to throw out makeup which has expired even if they have not been fully used. However, we should never risk our skin health. It's better to simply discard the expired products instead of potentially enduring the misery and suffering which we may experience after using expired makeup.

Elevate Your Business With the

ISUCCESS FACTORS

OF THE SOCIAL BUSINESS

STRATEGY

Stepping into the business world could be the best decision you've ever made, yet also the most terrifying one!

It's definitely scary to venture into new territory.

However, if you have a strong understanding, strategy and support, chances are things will go well. One strategy you'll definitely need on your side is a Social Business Strategy.

Social media is a pervasive element in our modern world. It's also a tool that you should be harnessing to improve customer and employee experience and relationship. It's definitely not something to ignore, even if it seems like a really complex arena that is far beyond your understanding.

Used correctly, social media can help you create more sales and engagement. As an agent and seller, wouldn't it be beneficial to have such a tool at your disposal? Gone are the days where you can rely on only a few brochures and word of mouth from family and friends.

To truly gain traction, try these 7 success factors of Social Business Strategy:

DEFINE YOUR OVERALL BUSINESS GOALS

If you're either an agent or a seller, it would be helpful if you put yourself in the shoes of an entrepreneur with your own business. Consider your goals, both short and long-term. For example, in the short term perhaps you want to gain sales and recognition. In the long term, you want to be a household name, famous for a great product. Lay down the actual overall goals of your business. This can help you to align your social strategy with your business objectives.

2 ESTABLISH YOUR LONG-TERM VISION

Striving for long term success is one of the most important factors that you need to consider. It is important to establish a long-term vision so you know what is your business end goal. Long-term vision might take a longer time to achieve but it can also act as a driving and motivational force. Bear in mind that you may not be alone in this journey! If you have down-liners or a team, then a long term vision is very important to serve as inspiration. It gives something concrete for people to strive towards, so make sure to establish your vision and then communicate it to your team to ensure their support.

DEFINE THE STRATEGY ROADMAP

Planning may be time consuming and tiring but it keeps your business on the right track. It is important to define the strategy roadmap for your unique business. This is because other business strategies might not be suitable for you due to different nature. Keep in mind when planning out your strategy roadmap that one size does not fit all. Since you have already identified your business objectives clearly, now you can identify what ways to use and to avoid for your business.

SECURE STAFF, RESOURCES, AND FUNDING

During the early stages of your business you might require external support to help you with your business. However, you should be looking down the road and start planning on how to develop internal resources for your business. Internal resources such as staff and relevant product information are vital to be secure well. With productive and efficient internal resources you can grow your business to the next level.

3 ENSURE EXECUTIVE SUPPORT

To achieve success you'll need the support of key executives. There are ups and downs in business but strong support is what will help you push through. Executive support is one of the key pillars of moral support that can help boost your motivation to create more sales.

5 ESTABLISH GOVERNANCE AND GUIDELINES

Every single person in your team has their own strength thus it is important to know how to utilize them for your business. Identify a likely candidate and make them responsible for executing the social strategy of your business. Also it is useful to establish clear guidelines that are easily referable. Then you'll have more time to spend on other aspects of the business. If you are a sole entrepreneur, it's still important to make guidelines to keep yourself on track and disciplined in running your business. It's also good to have something to refer to in the future; if you know where you went wrong then it's easy to make corrections.

INVEST IN TECHNOLOGY PLATFORMS THAT EVOLVE

In business, it is vital to invest in technology platforms that evolve and keep you on your toes. Keep a mindset of always being ready and willing to adapt to new ways of doing business. Always remember not to jump on the latest technology bandwagon just because it's trendy. Think: does it fit into your overall business goals? Does it match your brand? Also don't forget your hardware. As an agent or seller, prompt replies to enquiries much valued and a crucial part of customer relations. Prioritise investing some of your budget towards a good and reliable device so you can stay on top of enquiries as soon as they come in.

Although we tend to think of negotiation as the purview of sales people or people in higher management positions closing big business deals, it's actually something that we all do every day.

From deciding who washes the dishes to getting a better deal from stall vendors, we negotiate on a regular basis.

In the office, we may negotiate with our managers on when to deliver a project. We may negotiate with our co-workers who takes on which role in the project. With our clients, the stakes for negotiating well become even higher.

We may want to persuade clients to buy from us. We may want clients to give us more time, more money. We may want them to go with our creative suggestions. And so on.

So shall we practice negotiating? Here are a few tips and strategies to get you started:

No matter what your job is, sharpening your negotiation skills can only do good things for your career.

Study BODY LANGUAGE

55% of effective communication comes primarily from body language.

It makes your presentations more memorable, it helps you stand out during interviews and it also gives you that winning edge in negotiations.

Most people retain information through visual rather than oral communication. Therefore, proper body language will help you feel more confident and appear to be more authoritative.

Similarly, it is not always about you. Learn to read another person's body language. It will guide you on whether you should push an agenda or wait for another time. The best example; if a client's brows are furrowed, and they have their arms crossed, then maybe it's not the best time to suggest a budget increase.

Practice

There are no better ways to be good at negotiating other than than by practicing. You may practice your negotiation skills with a trusted friend or colleague. Ask them to pretend to be your boss or client and act out a scenario. Then ask for feedback and troubleshoot together. This helps you prepare better and consider arguments or opinions that you may not necessarily consider yourself.

Listen Carefully

Not only is this respectful, it's the best possible way to achieve understanding. Do not waste this opportunity to hear the other person out and work out a solution that works to both your benefits. Ask up front, what are your clients or boss's expectations, then listen carefully before bringing your own terms to the table. Ideally, you'd be able to do this in a face to face setting where nuances aren't lost.

Be Prepared

Preparation starts by knowing exactly what you want to get by the end of the discussion and by anticipating how the other party will react to your proposition. For example, if you hope to increase your client's marketing budget, then you should be ready to present a detailed plan on how you can guarantee a return on investment.

Brainstorm in advance what you think your client might oppose to and solutions you might offer. Also consider at which point you'd be willing to compromise; after all if you go too low you'd be making a deal that is disadvantageous both for you and your company. Your boss won't be too happy about that and then you'll be stuck at the negotiation table with them!

Follow Up

One of the most important things to do after a negotiation is to recap what was discussed and to clarify any points that still feel hazy to you.

Once all points have been clarified, make sure to follow up with an email that lists down all the points made between both parties. That way, you have a record of the discussion and means to hold people accountable.. It also removes that awkward step of having to remind your boss or client about what was agreed upon.

Negotiation may be intimidating at first, but with enough practice you're sure to do well. Many of us take things a bit too personally; remember that at the end of the day, it's all business. It's not about you and it's not about your ego. So do your best with what you have, and if the results aren't to your liking, simply learn from your mistakes and do better in the future.
